TEMPLE LAW
SUMMER SEMESTER
PROGRAM IN ROME

(2019)
TEMPLE SUMMER LAW PROGRAM IN ROME
MAY 21 - JUNE 21, 2019

Study international and comparative law in the heart of Rome and immerse yourself in la dolce vita for five weeks.

Temple University’s Rome campus is located on the Tiber River within walking distance of many famous historic sites. Classes are taught in English by American and Italian law professors. The program includes field trips that are designed to give students an understanding of Italian and European legal history and culture.

Students are encouraged to find their own accommodations. For those who would rather not find their own housing, Temple can arrange housing in a Residence convenient to the Rome campus.

Applications are available online at: http://lawgradandintl.temple.edu
Application Deadline: March 1, 2019

Applicants must submit:
- completed application form; and
- $50.00 non-refundable application fee (waived for Temple students)

Deposits Required:
A $200 tuition deposit is due by March 15, 2019, and is credited towards tuition. The tuition deposit is non-refundable.
If a student elects to use Temple arranged housing, an email should be sent by March 15, 2019.

Admission Criteria: Completion of one year in good standing at an ABA approved law school. Temple Law students are considered for summer program admission after their fall semester grades are posted. Students in good academic standing (2.0) are eligible to attend.

Non-Temple arranged housing options: As in most cities, the key to apartment hunting in Rome is location. You should try to find housing that is within walking distance to the campus. Apartments designated as “center city” (or “centro storico”) or near the Vatican (“Vaticano”) will probably be most convenient. It is wise to rent an apartment near a metro stop. A map of the metro can be found online at: http://www.romemap360.com/carte/png/plan_metro_rome.jpg
The following are some agencies that may prove useful although Temple makes no representations or warranties concerning them and has no connection to them (more will be provided in the pre-departure manual):

- Airbnb.com
- www.romepower.com: provides housing to professionals staying in Rome for an extended period of time and short-lets to tourists.
- www.romanhomes.com: centrally located apartments, a bit more expensive.
- www.italy-weekly-rentals.com: one week villa & apartment rentals.
- www.romesweethome.it: Italian-based company that provides wide selections of self-catering apartments.
- www.romanreference.com: Rome-based company that lists short-term vacation rentals and sub-lets.

* Tuition includes a program fee for field trips, activities and any course materials distributed overseas. Students must purchase most course materials (textbooks) in the U.S. prior to departure. Please refer to instructions for ordering required textbooks in the pre-departure manual.

 Airfares are estimated based on East Coast departure. Actual airfares may be higher for West Coast originating flights.

 Housing cost based on a studio apartment rate for those in residence from May 21 to June 21 is $2300 approximately. Students are encouraged to find their own accommodations, which can be as low as $800 approximately. Temple can arrange housing in Rome at Residence Prati – an apartment building convenient to the Rome campus. If a student elects to use Temple arranged housing, please contact Temple Law Graduate & International Office for assistance.

* Students registered for 2-4 credits pay $102 in university services fees

Students registered for 5 credits pay $170 in university services fees

 The above figures are estimates of major expenses which may be incurred in conjunction with your study abroad enrollment. They are based on the average spent in the past year and exchange rates. Actual expenses will vary according to spending habits and preferences as well as on the exchange rate at the time you make your purchase or charge your credit card for expenses paid in Euros.

Financial Aid

Students enrolled for at least 4 credits may use student loans to cover all or part of the Rome summer program budget, including tuition and estimated living expenses, books and round-trip travel. For more information, please contact the Law School Financial Aid Office in 101 Barrack Hall.

COURSE OFFERINGS

Introduction to European Union Law and Comparative Social Justice are each worth 2 credits. Global Legal Perspectives is worth 1 credit and it is mandatory. J.D. Students may enroll in up to 5 credits.

Introduction to European Union Law (2 credit hours)
Professor Louis Natali

Italy is a member of the European Union, making it an excellent place to study European law. This course surveys the institutions of the European Union, the EU mechanisms for establishing law and adjudicating disputes, and the main bodies of EU law and leading cases. The focus of this course will be on issues of jurisdiction, harmonization and enforcement of the laws of the various European member states.

Comparative Social Justice (2 credit hours)
Professor Kathryn Stanchi

This course will explore international approaches to select social justice issues. The course defines social justice broadly as the process of remedying oppression by understanding social inequality. We will look at both the law’s role in perpetuating social inequality and its great potential to realize social justice. The reading focuses on how the courts of the U.S. and other countries decide cases that raise issues related to socially marginalized populations, with particular focus on gender, race, socio-economic status and sexual orientation. We will also read several “shadow” opinions written by legal scholars that show how the cases could have been decided using existing law, but with a view toward enhancing social justice. The readings cover a wide range of doctrinal issues, including reproductive justice, education, marriage and family, voting and other civil rights issues. However, you need not have any background in the law of these areas to understand the issues.

Global Legal Perspectives (1 credit hours) - Mandatory course
Professor Natali, Professor Stanchi and other lecturers

The Global Legal Perspectives will provide students with an introduction - both in and out of the classroom- to international perspectives on law and legal practice. Topics will include an introduction to European Law, overview of the Italian legal profession, and international aspects of tax law. Students will be provided an opportunity to reflect on their personal perspectives on law, including their legal insights from the lived Roman experience. Students will also learn how to conduct themselves as professionals in visits to an Italian law firm and the Italian Bar Association. They will be expected to have business cards in English and Italian and will have opportunities to explore and share their learning and experiences with other legal professionals.

FACULTY BIOGRAPHIES

Louis M. Natali, Jr. Professor of Law
J.D., Georgetown University Law Center
B.A., (cum laude), LaSalle College

Professor Natali joined the Temple Law School faculty in 1990. He has published numerous articles on Death Penalty Litigation, Evidence and Trial Advocacy throughout his career. He currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Pennsylvania Innocence Project.

He graduated from Georgetown Law Center in 1966, where he was an Associate Editor of the Georgetown Law Journal. Professor Natali clerked on the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, working for Judge Herbert Boreman. He was a graduate fellow in Criminal Law and Litigation at the University of Pennsylvania Law School in a program directed by Professor Tony Amsterdam.

In 1971, Professor Natali formed the law firm of Segal, Appel and Natali, specializing in criminal defense. He became an Associate Professor at Rutgers-Camden Law School in 1974, leaving that position in 1976 to become First Assistant Defender at the Philadelphia Defender’s Association. From 1973 to present, Professor Natali has also been involved in the training of trial lawyers with the National Institute of Trial Advocacy.

Research & Teaching Areas: Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, Death Penalty Litigation, Evidence, Professional Responsibility, Trial Advocacy

Kathryn M. Stanchi, Jack E. Feinberg ’57 Professor of Litigation
J.D., Boston University School of Law
B.A., University of Pennsylvania

Professor Stanchi has dedicated her academic career to teaching students how to be good lawyers. She teaches exclusively writing courses, including legal research and writing, law and feminism, appellate advocacy, and two courses of her own creation, advanced persuasive strategies and drafting judicial opinions for social justice. Her scholarship focuses on writing, litigation, persuasion and gender. She is a principal organizer of the United States Feminist Judgments Project, which has received national attention in the media.

Professor Stanchi has also been a member of the Board of Directors of the Association of Legal Writing Directors and served many years on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Legal Writing, a peer edited law journal. She was also the associate editor of Pennsylvania’s Rules of Evidence. In 2014, she was a Fulbright Specialist at Keio University in Tokyo, Japan.

Before joining academia, Professor Stanchi was an associate in the litigation department of Debevoise & Plimpton, where she worked on a variety of commercial matters including patent, securities, and breach of contract cases, as well as a number of pro bono cases involving civil rights. She also clerked for Justice Stewart G. Pollock of the New Jersey Supreme Court.
